School is Back 2020!

How did the school year start for our partner schools this year?

December 21, 2020

Our project “55 for 50” was a success. We visited 6 schools and provided didactic materials and masks to teachers. We also provided each school with several portable hand washing stations, soaps, hand sanitizers and hand hygiene posters.

Discussion with teachers and school directors

Our visits also included a dialogue with the school teachers and directors to describe Congo4Tomorrow's objectives and the main objective of project "55 for 50". We discussed the potential of a long term partnership with each school.

Handwashing demonstrations with the children

As part of an awareness campaign against infectious diseases linked to inadequate hand hygiene, our volunteer healthcare professionals made hand hygiene demonstrations to teach the children how to protect themselves. They also demonstrated proper use of hand sanitizers and explained the benefits of using them regularly.

Given the COVID-19 pandemic, it is crucial at this moment for children to remain healthy and able to go to school. Congo4Tomorrow was honored to participate in the fight against this deadly disease and spread the message of disease prevention to the children.

This was a fun-filled activity for all the children. They enjoyed learning about infectious diseases, specifically COVID-19. They also were delighted by the interactive activities and the hand hygiene games. They were mostly proud to show their classmates how much they had learned.

Every classroom was provided with hand hygiene posters as a reminder of the proper technique for all children to apply regularly.

What's next?

During our dialogue with the school authorities and teaching body, we realized how immense the needs are. Some schools are in great need of desks to accommodate the growing number of students given the fact that elementary school has become free throughout the nation. Many of the needs we have identified are being reviewed for future projects. We have more in store for 2021 and we continue to count on your participation. Stay tuned for more information.
